If you had told the 11 year old Roella that at 21 she would have a full tuition scholarship to Berklee College of Music in Boston MA she wouldn't have believed you.

It was a dream come true to be offered a place, but the financial costs of studying abroad were prohibitive. Without the help and support of grants it just wouldn't have been possible.

Roella was a perfect fit for the aims of the Foundation. Her range of achievements were phenomenal and illustrated her dedication to a life in music and her incredible work ethic.

With the help of a grant from the WF she is now in her second year at Berklee. She has consistently achieved high grades and realised her dream to study the grass roots of jazz music and education.

"We are proud to be supporting Roella. She is an extraordinary student, who clearly soaks up every minute of every day of her course. She sends regular enthusiastic and comprehensive updates, and her career should be followed with interest."
